

ENDORSE FIGHT ON CANNONISM

Secret of Closing Hours of Roosevelt Administra- tion Leaks Out

FEARED EMBARRASSMENT

For President Taft and on Inaug- uration Day Withheld Letter Which Might Have Effected Change.

Washington, May 21.—With "Roosevelt and insurgency" for a battle-royal in their fight for re-election next fall, the house progressives are today planning to sweep Theodore Roosevelt into the midst of the terrific campaign which confronts them. Hitherto secret information on which the insurgents base their assurance of Roosevelt's active support in the fight against Cannonism became available today. The situation revives an unpublished report made to the insurgent organization in caucus in March, 1909, by the insurgent executive committee. Representatives Nelson (Rep., Wis.), Madison (Rep., Kansas), and Gardner (Rep., Massachusetts), charged with the mission of obtaining the endorsement of Roosevelt for the insurgent policies in those strenuous closing days of the strenuous administration. The following statements incorporated in that report, and known for over a year to every house insurgent, are here made public for the first time.

On March 3rd, 1909, Theodore Roosevelt proposed to give Representative Nelson, chairman of the insurgent executive committee, a letter endorsing the fight on Cannon and the house rules. He expressed himself as thoroughly in sympathy with the progressive movement, particularly in the fight against Cannon, as he said: "Cannon has been the greatest obstacle in the way of my efforts to secure good legislation for the people of the country, throughout the seven years of my administration." On March 4th, after spending the evening of March 3rd, he begged to be excused from writing the letter. As a ground for this change of purpose he said that from conversations with Taft, he was afraid such a course would embarrass his successor. One of the last acts of Roosevelt's administration, as he stood in the president's room in the senate wing of the capitol was to take Representatives Nelson and Gardner by the hand, lead them over to Taft, and plead with the president-elect to take up the insurgent cause.

The story of the endorsement that was never given was utilized by the insurgent committee by the executive committee as follows: Representatives Nelson, Gardner and Madison, of the executive committee of the progressive caucus, were present to endeavor to secure President Roosevelt's endorsement of the insurgent attack on Cannon and the rules projected by the progressives to be made during the special tariff session, that convened March 15, 1909. They had arranged an appointment with President Roosevelt for the afternoon of March 3rd.

The eleventh hour of the Roosevelt administration was at hand and Roosevelt was moving out of the White House. The executive offices, were in confusion. Clerks were rushing in and out of the president's office and Roosevelt led the insurgent committee into the old cabinet room, dragged a chair from the cabinet, placed it over into a corner and the scene was on.

Nelson, as chairman of the committee, outlined to the president the plan of attack on Cannon and the rules, the object and chances of success for the entire insurgent program and asked Roosevelt to endorse, officially the movement. Roosevelt, raised himself in his chair, drew one leg up beneath him, in his favorite deliberative attitude, clasped his hands behind his head and said: "Now, boys, let me think out loud."

Then for 20 minutes he proceeded to outline his position in the impending legislative struggle. He pointed out to himself and the insurgents that throughout his administration Speaker Cannon and certain of his followers in the house had opposed measure after measure that he had advanced and advocated. He said in the beginning, that personally he was in sympathy with the insurgents and with what they were trying to do. Then he continued saying that he was now getting out of the limelight, that another man was about to take up the reins, and that the new president might not like to have them taken out of his hands.

to him that he would be encroaching on the prerogatives of his successor. If he publicly endorsed the insurgent movement that he had been dealing with these things in his own way and that his successor would want to do the same without interference. Throughout the interview the only objection Roosevelt made to a public declaration of his sympathy with the progressive movement was the fact that his successor might be embarrassed.

"I don't want to seem to interfere," Roosevelt said, "in the hands of my successor. I don't want to seem to take his cards in my own hands. I am like that."

For an hour and a half Roosevelt talked over the request of the insurgents and they outlined their various projects. Repeatedly the president evinced his desire to aid their cause, seeking only a way to do so that would not leave him open to a charge of interfering with Taft's administration. Finally he made this suggestion:

He offered to write a letter to Chairman Nelson of the insurgent committee endorsing the insurgent program. He told reminiscently of writing a similar letter for the use of the "organization (Republicans)" early in his administration in return for which they had promised to put through the Roosevelt legislative program.

"And you see what they have done for me," he added, leaning forward and grasping the arms of his chair. He said that under the circumstances he would not write the letter for publication but that it could be used among the members of the house without reserve not even excepting "Cable Joe" himself. The letter was to be a complete endorsement of the insurgent program for amending the rules and the reduction of the speaker's power.

When the insurgents left the White House it was understood that Roosevelt was to write the letter and send it to Nelson.

At noon the next day Roosevelt sat in the President's room off the senate chamber at the capitol, signing the final bills of his administration. All the ceremonial preparation for the inauguration of President Taft was under way. About Roosevelt, as he bent over the desk, were grouped several members of the house and senate. Roosevelt summoned a page, sent for the insurgent committee that had waited on him the day before. Only Gardner could be found and Roosevelt despatched him to find Nelson.

When Gardner and Nelson returned Roosevelt was busy with the numerous bills on the desk before him. He arose quickly, grasped Nelson by the hand, and said:

"Well, I'm sorry," then he told them that without discussing directly the suggestion he had made to the insurgents, he had brought up the rules-Cannon matter in Taft's presence and that as a result he had reached the conclusion that to write the letter would be unwise in view of what Taft had said. He again expressed his sympathy with the insurgent plans, however. Gardner turned to him and asked:

"Well, Mr. President, won't you ask Mr. Taft to do what he can for us?" With an impulsive gesture, Roosevelt turned to the two insurgents, grasped each by the hand and led them over to where Taft stood. The other occupants of the room started a little and turned their attention toward the president and president-elect. Roosevelt briefly explained to Taft the plans of the insurgents in their fight against Cannon and the rules and said that they had asked for his support.

For probably five minutes, he pleaded with his successor for the insurgents and their cause, ending with the request "at least keep your hands off."

Taft listened to Roosevelt's fervid plea, threw up his hands and turned off the matter in a joking way. Within half an hour Roosevelt had surrendered the presidency to Taft and had severed himself entirely from politics. He has not discussed politics since. But the insurgents have sent letter after letter to Africa and Europe. The replies to these letters are guarded closely by their recipients.

CREW OF STEAMER DROWNED

Eighteen Men Go Down With the Goodyear in Lake Huron

BOAT RAMMED IN FOG

Foundered Within Twenty Minutes After Being Struck—Several Were Rescued.

Cleveland, O., May 21.—Eighteen of a crew of 23 men were drowned yesterday with the sinking of the steamer Frank H. Goodyear, owned by John Mitchell, of Cleveland, in collision with the steamer James B. Wood, owned by the Glenhurst Transportation Company at Port Huron. The Wood rammed the Goodyear, which sank almost instantly. The Goodyear was built in 1902 at Lorain. She had a gross tonnage of 4115. She is 116 feet long, 50 foot beam and carried, normally, a crew of 22 men. The steamer James B. Wood was built in 1906 at West Bay City, Mich., is 514 feet long, 54 feet beam and has a gross tonnage of 7159. She carries a crew of 23 men.

The collision between the two boats occurred off Point of Barques in Lake Huron. The Wood arrived at Port Huron today with two big holes stove in her bow. Her crew refused to talk, but admitted that the crash came yesterday in the fog that hung over the lake. Most of the crew of the Goodyear, the sunken vessel, lived in Algonac, Mich.

Among the known drowned are Mrs. T. H. Bassett and daughter of Marine City, Mich. The steamer William Jamieson, of the Pittsburgh Steamship Company, stood by and is believed to have rescued several before proceeding to the Soo, where she is due to arrive this afternoon. The number of the crew and others on the Goodyear is variously estimated, but reports from three different sources place the number of dead at 18. The Wood brought to Port Huron Captain Ed. Heminger, of Algonac, and three of the crew. The Goodyear was bound down with ore and the Wood was going north without cargo. The Goodyear foundered within 20 minutes.

USED CADAVER

TO SCARE GIRLS

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 21.—Medical students working in the anatomical laboratory of the University of Michigan propped a cadaver in the window to surprise some coeds who were studying under the trees beneath. When the boys crowded close to see the girls jump they pushed against the "stiff" which fell at the girls' feet.

The young women fled screaming. The boys hustled down the two flights of stairs and carried the cadaver back to the laboratory just as the instructor in charge appeared.

They insisted that it was all for a joke because the girls would not flirt with them.

TRIAL

Of Seylor for Murder of Jane Adams Is Being Rushed by the Prosecution.

May's Landing, N. J., May 21.—With more than half of the prosecution's case complete, and with but material witness, Orvis Seylor, yet to be called, both sides were well satisfied with the progress made when the trial of William Seylor for the murder of Jane Adams at Atlantic City last February, was resumed today. It was planned to call Orvis Seylor to complete the chain of circumstantial evidence against his brother, and District Attorney Clarence L. Goldenburg stated that he hoped to rest his case sometime today.

As is usual under New Jersey court procedure, no time was wasted in the technical examination of witnesses. Justice Trumbull, who is presiding, insisted both yesterday and today that the attorneys confine their questioning to the actual testimony under consideration and refrain from conducting fishing expeditions.

It was stated by Edmund G. Gasbill, Jr., attorney for William Seylor, that his client will be the chief witness in his own defense. He will repudiate the "signed statement" introduced yesterday, in which he is made to say that he had not been out of his home on the night the girl was murdered. He will tell how this statement was secured from him in the jail at Pittsburgh, Va., and will insist that the detectives forced him to make the statement. He will then give his version of how the Adams girl met her death.

The important evidence against him so far is the statements of the medical men that the Adams girl came to her death probably by a blow from a stick, which will swear that he did not strike the girl, but that they heard no words and that she jumped backward and fell into the ocean.

The evidence of Charles Adams, Mrs. Adams and Alice Adams, three little light of color, matters inasmuch as Seylor now insists that he was at the pier with the girl on the night in question.

MILLIONAIRE'S SON FOUND DEAD IN CHEAP LODGINGS

After spending the fortune left him by his father in high living and prodigious entertainments of his friends, Snell finally became an outcast, and was ignored by other members of the Snell family. After his health failed five years ago he eked out a miserable existence by running errands and doing other odd jobs about the docks.

GOVERNOR EXERCISES VETO POWER

Penned Four on Last Day on Which He Could Consider Bills

TAX MEASURES LAWS

Governor Harmon Allows Them to Become Valid Without His Signature.

Columbus, May 21.—Last midnight the state tax commission bill and the tax rate limit bill, the two most important tax enactments of the legislature at the session just closed, became laws without the approval of Governor Harmon.

Yesterday, the last day on which he could consider bills, the governor penned four vetoes. He vetoed the Bader bill, exempting park board bonds from the municipal debt limit, the Matthews bill, exempting from the debt limit bonds for the elimination of grade crossings and for street improvements, the Keller bill, carrying over the Fourth Judicial district and the Duval bill, authorizing the state dairy and food department to give lectures on agriculture.

By vetoes, the governor has reduced the legislative output of laws from 255 to 277. By his 16 vetoes, he has earned the title of the veto governor, as the aggregate vetoes of his three predecessors who have had the veto power is less than this number.

Governor Harmon allowed 57 bills to become laws without his signature. In his veto of the Bader Park bond bill, he says: "The legislation passed for this purpose does not fully meet the public needs, but it has real value." He made no public statement regarding the Langston bill, but is understood to have disapproved of the section authorizing the state board of appraisers and assessors to appoint members of city boards to review.

He vetoed the bill for instruction on farming by the state feed commissioner on the ground that the duties of this department should be purely administrative and that similar instruction is now being given by the state board of agriculture, the state experiment station and the Ohio State University.

Among 25 bills which the governor held to the last day and then did not set upon, were the Gibbs bill, requiring the state bureau of accounting to inspect all department and institutions of the state government, including the governor's office; the Scheerer bill, limiting free lunches to cheese, pretzels and crackers; the Deaton bill, granting interurbans the right to condemn property; the Johnson bill, increasing the proportionate share of the cost of the cost of elimination of grade crossings; the Senfemmer plumbing inspector bill, the Johnson bill, taxing premiums of unauthorized insurance companies, and the Mather and Gibbs bills, for establishing police courts in Akron and Lorain. Last year Governor Harmon vetoed a bill establishing these and other police courts.

The millionaire was shot dead. Tascott disappeared. He was never captured, although he was reported to have been seen in numerous cities in all parts of the country.

With the wind blowing about 40 knots an hour, 15 men were sent from the home port Monday, but out of the number but three circled the course and landed into the home dock in safety. As luck would have it all three men carried Marion's coals, for the Molders were not as careful skippers as the challenging squad.

Zmich was the same old hoodoo. Monday he used little better a strong in-drop, and as the wind favored the port side finger the curves broke beautifully, and for three innings he fooled the Newark batsmen and not a drive was made off his delivery. Then they began finding him, but with the exception of the fifth inning he was in no danger.

LaFollette pitched good baseball, too good to lose, but he wasn't given the same brand of support as was accorded his brother twirler and the Diggers had little trouble in going a notch higher, the result of their first meeting with the Molders. Umble's delivery made his first appearance, and while it was a little off on balls and strikes, yet the game he umpired was above all criticism. He also seemed to be in the mood of the diamond and the big smoke throughout the nine rounds.

There wasn't a very big crowd out to witness the match, for as has been the case on numerous occasions it is season the weather before the game was threatening and most of the fans carried raincoats and umbrellas, but aside from the stuff wind that was blowing during the game, the match was not bad.

The affair was devoid of sensations, and Frank's one catch was about the only thing above the average during the meeting. Marion started strong and threatened the plate in the first inning, but Meyers' peg to Anderson cut short Epier's hopes of a big score opposite his name.

The second round was more fruitful for the visitors and Thomas curled the ball. With Meehan down on an easy roller, Thomas rumbled to right for two cushions and then took third on the play that caused Willoughby's demise at first. When Zmich pitched out a Texas leaguer over Conley's head, Thomas raced home.

The third was similar to the second, as far as scoring was concerned, only it was bad judgment of Conley's that allowed the run, for he overestimated Epier's drive and underestimated Epier's push, which went for two sacks, bringing Epier safely across the same mat. The Diggers counted again in the seventh and Zmich was the runner, for he started things with a stingy infield hit that no one could handle. Ayette sacrificed him to second, he went to third on Epier's out and scored on Meyers' wobble of Hummel's offering.

The big southpaw was in danger in the fifth inning for three hits were made by the first three men up, but Anderson put a crimp in the hopes of the fans by looking to Reilly. LaFollette walked and Long ran wild, but the catcher trying to make some wit, the catcher holding the ball. The official report:

Lancaster, May 24.—The first game of the Portsmouth series took 17 innings to decide. Lancaster finally winning 3 to 2. Both Mauger and Ludwig were at their best, but the former had the better of the pitching and only five hits were made off him. He walked only one man. McCarthy scored two men for Lancaster in the fourth by a double. Slow fielding gave Portsmouth two runs. In the last inning Conwell made a bad peg on Weir, first and second and Weir took second. He went to third on Mauger's out. Then Ludwig singled at first the first ball for Lancaster. The score:

Behind the Screen
Newark fans have now seen every club in the league and of the lot the Molders crowd looks the best. They have good leads who are still delivering the goods and a bunch of youngsters who look promising. Lima has a fast aggregation and Portsmouth looks dangerous chiefly on a count of the pitching staff which is a winner so far. Lancaster is fast and Chillicothe isn't by any means out of the race, for the team is getting strong every day but the Diggers look like winners.

Meyers had a good day at second, and while his one muff let in a run, the game was already lost. He is a hard worker but seems to be a little slow in getting the ball away from him.

Long misjudged two hits that resulted in the first run in the game, and a pulled off one had sent on the path, but he may have been the fault of the coach, who probably figured there were two outs instead of one.

If the weather permits, Marion will clash with the Molders again today and tomorrow, then it's battle ground at Weir's park will have a test for the days.

On the many rules that govern baseball there is one that should be changed. When a runner is on third, and a batter is on first, a runner on first is almost sure to steal second and a stolen base is registered against the catcher. The play has to be scored this way, yet it is unjust to the backstop.

Some game that at Lancaster yesterday. It is the longest game played in the league in the past two seasons. Blake, the Lank's second baseman, handled 15 chances without an error, and got two hits.

Lancaster seems to have a knack of sending a game into extra innings, and then winning out. The reason for it is simple. They have a good bunch of youngsters that never quit.

In the game between the Stogies and the Babes yesterday there were 12 outs in the nine innings. That is a record in a slugging match.

The Molders sort of showed the Lank's a trick or two. Thirteen innings to win the first game and a score out administered in the Sunday's contest convinced the Lankville armistice that the Newark bunch are on the map to make trouble before the season is over. Further advanced, the Newark Gazette.

The Molders have a fast team and they have simply been playing hard and back to drop so many contests. If they play the kind of ball in the future as they did during the last two engagements with Lancaster, the Molders will not stay at the bottom of the list very long.—Lancaster Gazette.

Lima fans have now seen all of the Ohio State League clubs in action except Chillicothe. The team that defeated Portsmouth last night took one hit better than the fall on Molders. It has been breaking up a lot of Stogies since the opening of the season. This may account for the fact that they are such fast runners and can and equable with a surprise or every decision that is always near, close.—Lima Daily News.

SEAEVER'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS
Have you dyspepsia? If you have perhaps you want to get rid of it. You can by taking Seaver's Dyspepsia Tablets. We do not print any pictures of before and after taking. You get them by standing before the looking glass. If you don't believe this, try the tablets and you will. We have proved that Seaver's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure dyspepsia over and over again. We are ready to demonstrate it in your case, and we will tell you how. Go to the store of Erman and Son and get a package. Take it according to directions. If it cures you, step in and tell the druggist so. If it doesn't step in just the same, and tell him that, and he will hand you right back the ducats you paid him. Do you suppose this offer would be made if we had any doubts about what the tablets will do for you? Do you see any way that you can lose any money out of it? But if you really enjoy dyspepsia, and want to retain it permanently, let Seaver's Dyspepsia Tablets alone, for the tablets won't let dyspepsia alone.

GOODBYE, DOLLARS

Uncle Sam—There goes every year a lot of money that I get mighty little return from.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.

Sun sets 7:14, rises 4:31; moon rises 8:12; 11 p. m., eastern time, all Jupiter's satellites seen on west of planet; Halley's comet sets 10:34 p. m.; distant from earth 20,700,000 miles.

BEHOLD THE EXPERIENCE
Every move President Taft makes seems to involve his administration deeper and deeper in scandal and unpopularity. He has even stopped to the desperate expedient of denying and denouncing as utterly false outlandish statements about his own actions, and afterward issuing an official statement admitting that the reports were true, thereby branding his own denial as false.
This, then, is the high watermark of ability and reliability of that administration which was promised to us in 1908 as a result of "experience," and "travel," and "judicial temperament," and "knowledge of government affairs obtained by close association with the great and only Theodore Roosevelt," and the exponent of "my policies," and the "true friend of labor," and the only candidate for president in whom the people could trust with implicit confidence.
You don't read anything in the N. O. papers now about the superior qualification of "experience." The people are having an "experience."

THOS. N. MADDEN WRITES OF COMET
Who knows anything about the comet's tale? From Campello, 2200 years, Astronomers are the only ones who know anything about the comet's tale. They only have the means by which to read the tale of the skies. They only can tell how, when and where the planets, comets and stars have been, are now and will be. They hold in their hands the tale of the heavens. They produce for us photographic record of the heavens and play for us the music of the spheres. They expand our thoughts with wonder and amazement. While they know a little about the tale of the comet, they do not know all about the comet's tale. That is a puzzle. It is in the middle of the shadow. It is something, but it is nothing, and yet it has a name. Its tail is so large that it looks like it might be like the tail of the man's dog; it was so large that instead of the dog wagging his tail, the tail wagged the dog. But to say all jokes as he, part of the time it carries its tail behind it, then carries it to one side and then puts it in front of it. The comet is the belle of the society of the starry heavens. She cuts a great dash, then goes out into the distant darkness into the unseen, for a long time and gets ready for a new dash and shows off about all there is of it is shine. It has but very little solid about it, like the belle of the ball. It flaunts its tail, but needs nobody to carry it to keep it from dragging the floor. All gaze at it; all admire it. Some dread it. Some commit suicide on account of it. It can only shine by others' help. It is the belle of the ball, and dazzles only because it absorbs the product of another. But what is its tale? An aches that it is very thin, and it is matter of any kind? Astronomers do not agree on this. I will give my opinion. It is not substance unless light is substance. It is something on the light of the sun shining through the atmosphere of the comet. It is light, it is light, it is light, it is light, it is light. A piece of colored glass put on one side of a light will transform the light, which shines through it and cast a colored streak in that direction, like a comet's tail, but the other light remains the same. When a gas or a solid is broken and only a small piece remaining on one side, that piece will transform and intensify the light in that direction and cast a white streak in that direction, off into space. The atmosphere or envelope of the comet, if this piece of gas remains, has the power to intensify and transform the sunlight which shines through it and cast a brighter, whiter streak in that direction for that light, the brighter, until it becomes so white, and so thin that it is no longer of substance and the tail is gone.

SETTING A SNARE FOR SENATOR DICK
After Dick got the direct endorsement of over 150,000 Republican voters at the recent primaries, factional enemies within his own party set up a clamor that he should not seek the endorsement of the state Republican convention.
If Dick, who has long been given credit for craft and cunning in politics, is foolish enough to put his head into such a trap the Democrats of Ohio would enjoy his predicament even more keenly than would his political enemies in his own party.
Under the Bronson primary law the endorsement given Dick by so large a number of Republican voters cannot be construed in any sense as instructions to delegates in state convention. On the contrary, their votes were explicit instructions to Republican legislative candidates nominated at the same primary and to Republican candidates for state senator nominated by delegates chosen at the same primary to vote for Dick for senator if elected.
If he chooses Dick can claim his endorsement when the legislature meets as being entirely apart from and independent of any action by the state convention. He can marshall his primary vote at the state convention, if he cares to take the chances, and end the whole matter there for the convention could squelch him as completely by turning down his endorsement or by failing to take any action as it would by endorsing some other candidate instead.
Senator Dick's factional enemies are like "Greeks bearing gifts" in offering him the endorsement of a convention endorsement in addition to that he has already obtained at the polls.
It makes no difference to Democrats, however, what Dick does about it. It is well understood that if Dick is cast aside the contestants for his seat in the senate will be Herriot and Brother Charles, neither of which is more acceptable to thousands of Republican voters than Dick himself, while the embryonic boom for Garfield was nipped at the primary by the

GOT MORE THAN THEY WANTED
For years the Republican politicians of Ohio clamored that the veto power should be given the governor.
Since Governor Harmon showed them how to make proper use of it the R. O. P. politicians are not so much in favor of the veto power as they were before. It makes them uncomfortable to see a governor use it right.

HEALTH OFFICER INSPECTS ICE CREAM SAMPLES
The people of Newark eat a pretty good quality of ice cream, for the Board of Health is strict in the matter and dealers seem to be living up to the requirements of the law.
Still the board intends to see that the law is complied with, and since samples of ice cream made and sold in Newark have been taken by the sanitary policeman and are now at the office of Health Officer Knauss, who will test them, to see that none of the manufacturers are dodging the law in any way.
In the opinion of the health officer the samples are all up to the city's requirements, for he is personally acquainted with the different formulas used in the manufacture of the frozen delicacy.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Cures All Spring Ailments.
Mrs. Marion Bruce, Cumberland, Me., writes: "I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla for a great many years, and I think it the best blood medicine in the world. I take it both spring and fall. This last winter and spring I was in very poor health, and I had lost all my appetite and I was all run down. As soon as I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla my strength came back and my appetite returned. I am now well, do my housework, and no longer have that tired feeling."
Get it today in usual liquid form or chocolate tablets called Sarsatabs.

PNEUMONIA MAY END CLAY'S LIFE
Charles Clay, the molder who was stricken several weeks ago, and who was thought to be on the road to recovery, may yet die, for he is showing every symptom of pneumonia. Drs. Barnes and Legge were present at his bedside this morning and reported that they found him suffering greatly from a cold he had contracted and from a pain in his breast.
"Clay was stricken by Joe Ane, an Italian, during an argument, but for a while it was thought he would recover from the wounds. His injuries yielded readily to treatment and his attending physicians thought he would ultimately recover, but if pneumonia does set in his case is almost hopeless."

COMFORTING TO NERVOUS WOMEN
Is This Statement of a Thorough Cure After Ten Years of Suffering Such as Many Women Know.
If every pale, weak, nervous woman who reads these lines would try the remedy that cured Mrs. F. H. Morse, there would be far less suffering, fewer children born to a heritage of weak nerves, fewer unhappy homes.
Weak nerves mean irritability, hysteria, headaches, melancholia, perhaps insanity. Build up the nerves by using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, at the same time toning up the general health and you will see an increasing appetite, a happier disposition, a lighter step, freedom from lassitude, a return to sound and refreshing sleep.
The cure of Mrs. F. H. Morse, of Walsingham, Mich., should encourage every nervous sufferer to try this blood and nerve tonic. She says:
"From the time I was sixteen years old until I was twenty-six, I never knew a day of health. The breakdown was gradual at first and was due to overwork. I was sick all over and suffered intensely from stomach and intestinal trouble. Food distressed me, did not digest and there was a full feeling in my stomach. My heart was weak and fluttered, my blood was thin and I could get no strength from the food I ate. I had insomnia and did not know for years what a good night's sleep was. My limbs and head pained me badly. I was extremely nervous and so weak that I could not help myself.
"I doctored for some years but did not get any better and was finally given up as incurable. A friend told me that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had benefited her wonderfully and urged me to try them. After taking a few boxes I was satisfied that the pills were helping me and my improvement was gradual until I was cured. I am now doing all of my household work and am strong and healthy. I gladly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for they are an excellent medicine."
If you are interested in the treatment of nervous troubles with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, send for our free booklet, "Diseases of the Nervous System."
Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

HIGH WAVES AT BUCKEYE LAKE CAUSE TROUBLE

Columbus, May 24.—It was lucky that Scott Rankin, of the New Method Laundry, had his night with him yesterday. It was very lucky for him and six others, including two Columbus men, Edward Nagle and Stanley Dawson, manager of "Checkers," else seven men might have spent last night on Orchard Island, in Buckeye Lake, with no covering but the sky, instead of at home in bed. The Columbus men related their adventures after getting home last night.

The seven men, including four natives of the Buckeye Lake territory, essayed yesterday morning to cross the lake in Nagle's motor boat to Buckeye Park, where they expected to take the trolley line to Columbus. When they were about half way the wind began to rise and the peaceful little lake became rough, so rough, they said, that waves mountain high arose. Aboard with the seven men were 1000 pounds of ice.

Their boat, an 8-horse power affair, had trouble enough making headway in the face of the gale, when suddenly the rudder snapped. They were helpless. One moment they were riding on the crest of a wave and the next they were down in the trough. With each change of position the boat took in a lot of water. The pump was not working and Nagle was compelled to keep the water out with a small tin dipper.

All were preparing for the boat to sink, when after four hours of drifting it was finally tossed against Orchard Island. Here's where the night came to the rescue. It was the only signal they had. Fastened on a long pole, they waited it for nearly three hours before they attracted a boat of the Dell Fisher Boat Company.

They were picked up, but their misfortunes were not at an end. No sooner had the boat started until it snapped its rudder chain, and for the greater part of an hour was almost helpless. It finally managed to put in at Orchard Beach, where the damage was repaired.

"Talk about Captain Kidd in distress. He had nothing on us," said Nagle last night. "There we were on that island, far from land, with nothing to eat. All our provisions consisted of one stogie and three matches. We split the stogie three ways."

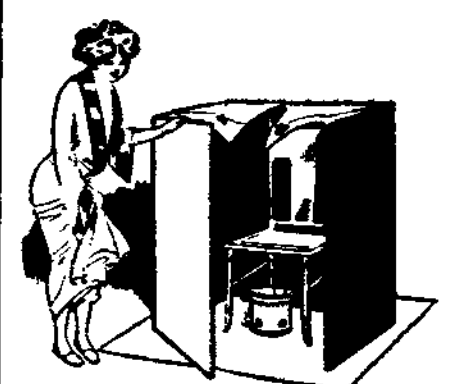

The lake was said to have been the roughest yesterday in the memory of the oldest inhabitant.

THE NEW SPRING FEVER TREATMENT

Best Spring Treatment Costing But a Few Cents Produces Astonishing Results.

Robinson Douglas Treatment Proves Revelation in Treatment of Many Diseases.

The results produced by a Robinson "Thermal" Bath inside of 30 minutes are almost beyond belief.

It has been found for instance in the case of rheumatism, that uric acid in the blood can be extracted from the system completely in a few days' time. Eczema can be completely cured within a week.

After one or two thermal baths, nervous wrecks find the change to strength and vigor hard to realize.

Similar results are obtained in cases of kidney trouble, neuralgia, pimples, all skin diseases, throat and lung trouble, insomnia, constipation, lumbago and bad colds.

Read this letter from Mr. Frank A. Thurston of New York and then judge for yourself:

"I only regret that I have delayed this necessity and luxury so long. The cabinet is all you claim for it: a preserver and restorer to health. I use your cabinet with great satisfaction as it gives new life and vigor to the entire system. The feature of breathing pure air is a great advantage over the Turkish bath. Another feature is being able to take a bath in one's own home before retiring. I do not believe that any intelligent man or woman would live without the cabinet after giving it a thorough test."

It is now possible for any man or woman to have Robinson Thermal baths at home at a cost of only a few cents.

The Robinson Thermal Bath Cabinets are on exhibition and for sale in Newark at W. A. Erman & Son's, City Drug Store and R. W. Smith's.

Go and examine them. Ask the dealer also for the book of the century, "The Philosophy of Health and Beauty," price two dollars, but given away free for a limited time. If you cannot go and see these wonderful cabinets send your name and address to the Robinson Mfg. Co., Suite 102 Snowflake Bldg., Toledo, Ohio, for full illustrated information free.

MOON'S ECLIPSE PRETTY SIGHT MONDAY NIGHT

Newark people were treated to two strange sights last night when they saw Halley's comet, visible only every 75 years, and a total eclipse of the moon. The two strange sights predicted in the newspapers caused many residents to be on the lookout and the celestial phenomena was seen by people gazing towards the heavens from every part of the city.

The comet was visible in the west but the night was hazy, and the view of it was more or less obscure. Nothing was seen of the tail, which is supposed to be the chief earmark of the strange sky traveler.

The eclipse of the moon was total and was very interesting. It started ahead of schedule and Luna entered the shadow at 9:56 instead of 10:05, as had been predicted. The start was on the east and it continued in this manner until the moon was half covered, then it seemed to work downward until it was total.

As the moon gradually disappeared from view it presented a beautiful sight, for while the bottom showed brightly, the rest of Luna was a purplish red. At 11:10 there was barely a line of light showing and within two or three minutes, the eclipse was total. Scourrying clouds made it impossible to see the moon as long as many would have liked to, for the sight was an inspiring one.

Don Fondles a Child.

In Pittsburgh a savage lion fondled the hand that a child thrust into his cage. Danger to a child is sometimes great when least regarded. Often it comes through colds, croup, and Whooping Cough. They slay thousands that Dr. King's New Discovery could have saved. "A few doses cure my baby of a bad case of croup," writes Mrs. George B. Davis, of Flat Rock, N. C. "We always give it to him when he takes cold. It's a wonderful medicine for babies." Best for Coughs, Colds, La Grippe, Asthma, Hemorrhages, Weak Lungs, 50c., $1.00. Trial bottle free. ## 'Time's Flight Turned Backward' SAGE AND SULPHUR Made Her Look Twenty Years Younger

READ MRS. HERRICK'S SWORN STATEMENT

STATE OF NEW YORK }
COUNTY OF MONROE } ss
Rochester, N. Y.

Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a girl, I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair which was the envy of my schoolmates, and which attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. As I grew older, my hair commenced to come out, just a little at first, but gradually more and more, and then began to turn gray. I was induced by the many good reports I had heard of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy to try a bottle. My hair was quite thin and gray when I began using Sage and Sulphur, and you can imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, being thicker, darker and more glossy than it had been for a long time. I continued to use Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is now as heavy, dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is still in splendid condition.
